PRAYER WORKS

"Then they cried unto the LORD in their trouble, and he delivered them out of their distresses.
Psalm 107:6

"I have been shown angels of God all ready to impart grace and power to those who feel their need of divine strength. But these heavenly messengers will not bestow blessings unless solicited. They have waited for the cry from souls hungering and thirsting for the blessing of God; often have they waited in vain. There were, indeed, casual prayers, but not the earnest supplication from humble, contrite hearts."

RH, July 24, 1883 (par. 2)

MGA Dec. Happenings

by Roxy Heinrich

Have a holly jolly Christmas! Or, even better, as a Christian, help others have a holly jolly Christmas! MGA believes that service is a part of Jesus' calling. We have written goals for what we want students to achieve and become by attending or graduating from MGA. We call these goals SISRs. Two of the SISRs involve relating to Jesus and His people as well as being a responsible citizen. So, what does it look like when students are accomplishing those goals?

First graders in "jammies" sharing with others

Grades K-6 collected 117 pairs of pajamas to donate to the Pajama Project. For every pair of pajamas given, Scholastic donates a book to go with them. We donated to this project last year, as well. It warms our hearts as we consider warming other children's bodies.

Alex Nelson, a sophomore, talks about his trips with his father, Dr. Scott Nelson, for mission service: "My dad does amazing work in Haiti. He operates on kids who would not be able to get help anywhere else. Their lives are changed forever when they are given the ability to walk. Although they are not able to pay, their joy and smiles are pay enough. There is nothing more fulfilling than helping other people."

For some high school students and teachers in November it looked and sounded like this:

"Mission trip was an amazing experience. It was a blessing to me. I loved helping the people of Holbrook, and meeting all of the students was a great memory that I will keep with me throughout my life. Mission trip was so much fun. I really felt that I got close to God over the trip, too." –Zach Hoffer

"On mission trip we helped out at a school that wasn't as wealthy as ours. We cleared so many bushes and built paths for their alumni garden. We also fixed up the building's roof. We went to an old lady's house where their mother just died. We cleaned out the house for their daughters. We also painted it. In thanks, they made us a nice dinner. All in all, we helped out people in need, and I was so glad I could be a part of it. It was totally worth it." –Nick Arnott

"It was amazing to be able to see the impact we made. It made me really happy to see the owner of the house we redid cry because she was so thankful. I'm so glad I went. We all had fun and really came together when it came to helping other people." –Hannah Logan

"Going to mission trip was an amazing trip. We had a group which did one of the biggest favors there. We dug a 7-foot-deep trench. I would play with the kids and give them push-up horse rides. Just to see them smile, I knew I was doing something good." –David Lopez

"On mission trip we spent time with the kids from the school. We also helped make their school look nicer, and we cleaned it up. By doing these things, we brought joy to them." –Spencer Wagner

Beginning of the mission project

The finished mission project

"We traveled out (to what seemed like the middle of nowhere) to the Navajo Nation. There we arrived at a really run-down house; it barely looked at a house (not to mention they didn't have running water). This house had chunks of the wall missing; the paint was all chipped and faded. When we got there, I was wondering what we were going to do to this house because it looked like nothing could make it look any better. We ended up cleaning the inside of the house and painting the whole outside of this house. We did this painting in the wind with the temperature outside around 50 degrees and sand blowing everywhere (mouth, eyes, face, etc). It ended up looking really nice when we were finished. Going out there, to help those who have so little, made me realize how much I take for granted." Kaylene Lopez

So, have a holly jolly Christmas! Or, even better, as a Christian, help others have a holly jolly Christmas!
