MGA January Happenings

By Roxy Heinrich

Happy New Year! Mesa Grande has several pieces of good news to share with you.

Almost $2,000.00 was given by church members and parents during the offerings taken at the M.G.A Christmas concerts. This money so generously donated by all of us you went directly to pay for the new set of hand chimes that the music department purchased earlier this year.

Grace Dryer, a junior, has won a $500.00 cash prize for her writing. During October, freshmen, sophomores, and juniors submitted poems against world hunger. The companies sponsoring this competition not only donated money to food banks for each poem written, they also awarded four grand prizes for poetry, art, essays and video presentations. Grace's winning essay also brought the school a $200.00 cash gift.

Five new students from China are joining us for second semester. Last spring Mr. Riddle made a recruiting trip to China, and this fall Becky Cohen, director of our English as a Second Language program, went there as well. Several of our current students come from the city of Hangzhou, which is the city where Damaris Matthews and John Roach are working this year. What a small world it is!

Austen Wilcox, a junior, was baptized on December 20. He chose to honor Mr. Knight as his MGA spiritual mentor because of their long spiritual conversations and Mr. Knight's supportive and insightful comments.

M.G.A has very specific goals that we want to see fulfilled in students' lives by the time they graduate from the academy. We call them our SISRs based on the acronym for the goals.

MGA Graduates will be:

Spiritual Seekers who . . .

- grow in their relationship with Jesus Christ and His people
- recognize and utilize their God-given talents in their life choices.
- demonstrate a knowledge of Biblical principles and the mission of the SDA church.

Inquiring Scholars who . . .

- use resources and develop study skills necessary for success in life.
- think critically, communicate effectively, and demonstrate competency in all subject areas.
- develop the skills and curiosity to continue learning outside their classroom.

Skilled Communicators who . . .

- listen effectively and work cooperatively as leaders and team members.
- express themselves in language, visual and performing arts.
- treat others and their ideas with respect, compassion and understanding.

& Responsible Citizens who . . .

- serve their local and global communities
- understand the benefits of living a healthy, balanced lifestyle.
- exhibit self-discipline and a Christ-like character.

Fun snowman art by Kindergarten and 5th grade buddies!
